METMANN offers you the best technology to control the temperature and hygrometry in your greenhouses, in a natural and a very economical way: the evaporative cooling.

After several years, we are working together with the biggest European greenhouses constructors, putting our devices to their service in their projects: vegetable production greenhouses, investigation centres, industrial buildings, too.

We adapt our units, our control panels to the specific necessities of our customers. Technology 100% manufactured in Barcelona.

High technology that permits the on-line knowledge of temperature and hygrometry, and regarding these data, it can permit the automatic control of the coolers through a computer processor of similar devices: this is the full climate management.

Best climate for growing, best satisfaction for the customer!
